You have been hired by Environment Canada as part of the elite “Sustainability Squad”. Your task is to create a poster illustrating the term “ecological footprint” and its relationship to society and nature.

Be as creative as you would like within the confines of the time you have. The posters will be marked and displayed in the classroom.

You may use both drawings and text to reveal your thoughts on what you would do to improve the ecological footprint that you will leave behind for your children and future generations.

Think of the largest improvement or the smallest contribution you can make that will influence our society both now and in the future.

Using markers and the paper provided create a meaningful messages to all those who read your poster as they too can understand the term “ecological footprint” and make a difference in societies relationship to nature.
